

The SAUCE of LIFE

Four-month-old, rotted salt fish fermenting in the sun are stirred by a Vietnamese woman.

Vietnamese girls sort a catch of small fish for sale to a nuoc mam factory.

Giant nuoc mam vats with a capacity of about 1,750 gallons are made from hardwood planks and rattan bands.

For most Vietnamese, "nuoc mam" is a popular sauce of life. It is a condiment made from fish, and it is used to flavor food, dunk food in, mix with soups, moisten dry rice, or almost anything else to do with eating.

On the island of Phu Quoc, in the Gulf of Siam, nuoc mam is serious business. About three million liters of the sauce are exported annually. The residents of the island claim that it is the best produced anywhere.

To make the sauce, layers of small fish, caught in the island's coastal waters, separated by layers of salt, are placed in giant wooden vats. The fish are left to decompose for 12 to 14 months, during which time they liquify and mingle with the salt. As the level falls, more fish and salt are put in on top.

Then, after a year or more, the bottom of the vat is tapped and the sauce begins to trickle out—a pungent golden sauce with a powerful bouquet (or what the unsophisticated might be tempted to call a stench). The first out, that from the bottom which has been there longest, is considered the best.

Tasters and smellers, with tiny china cups attached to a long bamboo handle, sample the sauce as it pours out into other containers. If judged satisfactory it is transferred to five-gallon cans for shipment to the mainland.

The product is very highly prized. In Saigon, a liter might sell for 500 piasters (115 piasters to $1), but the small quantity of the very best nuoc mam is, literally, priceless: it is not even for sale and goes only to a selected and fortunate few.

HELEN HELP US!

SUMMER ROMANCES: END OF CHAPTER

Dear Helen: On summer vacation, I met this fellow named Gordon, Al I know is, he will be going to the State University in Cincinnati and he has a twin sister. Before I could learn anything more, the sheriff took him and his friend off to jail because they were camping on private property. When guys have motorcycles, police think the worst. My family left before they were released.

I want to get in touch with him, Helen. It's sort of like an unfinished symphony. Maybe it wouldn't work out, but I have to know... HOW?

Dear How: The boy's name and address would be on court records if you had access to them. Otherwise you chances of finding "Gordon" are slim, and perhaps it's just as well. Summer romances, like summer flowers, can look pretty wilted come November.

P.S. This goes for all you gals and guys who write, "I realized too late I fell in love this summer, but we forgot to exchange addresses..." If something doesn't work (guest book registrations, mutual friends, etc.) then resign yourself to a lovely memory. Reality might

Woman Is Paroled After a Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A woman who was sentenced recently to six months in prison for taking her two children out of the state against court orders, has been paroled after serving a little more than a week of the sentence at Cummins Prison Farm.
Mrs. Ruth Estes, 29, was convicted in Circuit Court in Independence County in January 1968 and the custody of the children was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Masner of Batesville, the children's paternal grandparents.

PARTY-FAIR—Two ways to dress for the holidays: in a black cotton velvet dress edged with white lace and ribbon sash (left) or in a deep red cotton velvet dress and pants trimmed with wide lace. Both by Johnston of Dallas.

Girls Have a Reason for Shedding Blouse

MIAMI (AP) — Some Miami college girls have provided reason for rejoicing among braless advocates — they're going blouseless as well.
The coeds on the Miami Dade Junior College—North Campus claim the new style helps them beat the Florida heat.
Going "blouseless" means wearing tight-fitting scarves tied at the neck and waist, with an exposed back, and nothing underneath.
The male students on campus have perked up, but some school administrators and faculty members feel such casualness should be reserved for the sand and surf.

picked her up, turned her across my knee and gave her about six good whacks, I guess they were harder than I thought because Sally began to cry. I told her I was sorry, and she said she was the one to apologize, but I was so embarrassed I left.
I haven't seen her in five weeks because I don't date. We don't go to the same school, so I can avoid her pretty easily. I still like her a lot and friends tell me she still likes me.
Helen, would I make a big fool of myself if I called her up? — PUZZLED
Dear Puz: You'd be a big fool if you didn't. What's a little spanking between friends, if it does not happen again when the girl admits she deserved it? — H.

DECLARES MORE NEWS NEEDED ABOUT NEGROES

By TOM HARRIGAN
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - The nation's newspapers should hire more Negroes and publish fuller and fairer accounts of Negro activities, says a report to the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.
"Despite an impressive upsurge of effort, there are still far, far too few Negro employees on editorial staffs of American newspapers," the Black News Committee of APME said in its annual report.
"The nation's press 'is still white oriented' for sheer reason of its people still being overwhelmingly white," the report said. Among suggestions to the 425 managing editors attending the annual convention were:
- Involving more blacks in circulation of newspapers in minority group areas.
- Beginning recruitment of black editorial personnel in high schools and junior high schools, contacting teachers in schools with black students to find youngsters with aptitude and interest.
- Reporting "black news" from the beginning to the end, not just violence but the causes of violence.
- Emphasizing newspapers as a public forum with "letters to the editor" and "action line" columns seeking quick response to community and personal problems.
One contributor to the report, Neal Shine of the Detroit Free Press, said: "Our mistake is not in overreporting the activities of Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael, but in underreporting what is happening in the rest of the Negro community."
Ralph Holsinger of the University of Indiana department of journalism, vice chairman of the committee, said newspapers should "routinely cover a citizen's committee meeting in the black community" and should "get just as indignant over a black murder as over a white murder."
J. Q. Mahaffey, a managing editor on leave from the Texarkana, Tex., Tribune for the past 15 months to work in the Model Cities program, said: "I have come to realize that it isn't much fun being black in southwest Arkansas and northeast Texas."
Mahaffey said, "Many of the black people with whom I work every day tell me that they have just about given up on newspapers. They also let me know in no uncertain terms that the people I thought were the leaders of the black community weren't the leaders at all."

RUSSIAN BAPTISTS THRIVE

NEW YORK (AP) - "The vigorous growth of Baptist congregations in the Soviet Union, especially since World War II, indicates the spiritual vitality of the movement," the Rev. Dr. Eugene L. Smith said on return from a visit there.
Dr. Smith, head of the New York office of the World Council of Churches, said the Russian Baptist movement "has survived and grown under pressures of anti-religious propaganda of the government."
confront such basic issues as racial injustice, poverty, war and the generation gap," and has helped remove a common caricature of Baptists.

RABBI PRAISES GRAHAM

NEW YORK (AP) - An American Jewish Committee official, Rabbi Dr. Marc Tanenbaum, praises Evangelist Billy Graham for breaking down stereotyped attitudes about Baptists being interested only in "personal salvation" and not in social concerns.
The rabbi said that Graham, in his recent sermons, has demonstrated a keen concern for "social justice and for commitment to

Time To MOVE UP

It's Promotion Time...Sunday School Commencement time. Every youngster longs for this time of year. They have done well and must be promoted. They are moving ahead, making progress in the teachings of God. In that there is delight. Perhaps Promotion time should be just as important to adults as to the young. Maybe we should check our progress in Christian living. If we had to earn our yearly promotion where would we be? Are we going to church more? Have we increased our giving? Do we help more in various church programs? Do our lives reflect deeper religious beliefs? Would my pastor O.K. my promotion? Would my family give me a card? How about my relatives, friends and business associates? It is Promotion time and can we meet the challenge? Can we truly say it is Time for us To Move Up.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899—Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880—Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883—Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883—Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884—Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916—Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
—but both papers suspended in 1922.

Optimism is a mighty fine should be an optimist most a little pessimism will prove North's two diamonds was the Jacoby Transfer to hearts. With four hearts and a very strong no-trump, South jumped to three and North went right to the slam.

West opened the four of trumps and South noted that he had a pretty good play for the slam. Specifically, he could draw trumps and try a diamond finesse. If that worked, he would be home, if it failed, he could discard one of dummy's clubs on the third diamond and try to break the club suit 3-3. If that failed, also, he could still fall back on the spade finesse.

Pessimist South decided that West's trump lead indicated that he was afraid to lead away from honors in all side suits and that finesses were all going to lose. Then he worked out a play to guard against almost everything.

He drew trumps and played two rounds of clubs.
Then he played ace-king and 10 of diamonds. West covered the 10 with the queen and South discarded the last club from dummy.

West was end-played right then and there. He didn't have a club to lead. A spade lead would be right up to declarer's ace-queen and a diamond lead would allow a ruff and discard.

The play would also have worked against a 3-3 club break, since a club lead would set up South's fourth club. Of course, it would have failed miserably if East held the diamond queen but pessimist South had decided that West was surely going to show up with that card.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

It's Possible to Relieve Allergy to Dentures

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:
I'm 60 years old and wear upper false teeth. They're beautiful and fit perfectly but, gosh, I'm a wreck. My upper jaw, tongue and the inside of my lips are red and feel raw and burn all the time. Am I allergic to the plastic in the denture? If so, what can I do? I'd have another denture made but I feel the same thing might happen and I can't afford the money to chance it. Please advise me.—Ann R.

ANSWER: Your self diagnosis sounds correct—your symptoms are similar to those of an allergic reaction.
You're probably sensitive to the pink plastic base material in your denture.

It IS possible for you to have a new denture with some assurance of relief.
Your physician or dentist can test your sensitivity to various denture materials and determine which one is reaction-free for you. This is a simple skin test, quick, painless and inexpensive.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:
Is there any truth in what I've heard: That quick plate reliners are harmful to the gums? They are so easy to use and so inexpensive, compared to reliners done by dentists.

ANSWER: Use of mail-order or drugstore denture reliners is known to be harmful to gums and jaw-bone. Some dentists even think they have cancer-producing potential.

Besides, it's not so simple to relined dentures. It's even difficult for dentists to do it right and get a good result.

If this is so, how in the world can you expect to correctly rebase your own den-ture and in your mouth, too?

Not only are the mechanical results questionable but some quick-setting reliners chronically irritate gum tissue, weeks after they are "cured" or "set." They also leave rough, porous surfaces which, together with uneven pressures created, cause rapid absorption of ridge bone.

Home-cured denture re-liners smell bad, too. They absorb food odors which can't be eliminated, even with the best prophylactic care.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:
Can anything be done to stop bone shrinkage? My teeth were extracted about two years ago but my ridge bone is still shrinking and my dentures have had to be relined already.

ANSWER: Absorption of dental bone (not jawbone) that supports teeth is a continuous process throughout life. In some people, absorption is more rapid than in others, sometimes being almost completely absorbed even before all teeth are lost and dentures are made.

Dentures should be relined every few years to compensate for shrinkage of bone and gums.

Hope Spoils Homecoming for Malvern

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sportswriter

By the fourth time, winning gets to be automatic. With a crowd defense and some great passing by Ronnie Massanelli, the Hope Bobcats hammered the Malvern Leopards 20-6 last night in the 4-AA Western Divisional opener for both teams at Malvern.

Now 4-1 for the season, the Bobcats moved out to 1-0 in the Division while spoiling Malvern's Homecoming and dropping the Leopards' record to 0-5. But injuries did result for the first time this fall in Malvern, the soph tackle Lynn Norton suffered a badly broken left thumb which is being treated in Wadley Hospital at Texarkana.

While the defense shut off Malvern and maintained good field position, the Bobcat offense whipped out a big statistical margin led by Artis Martin's 110 yards rushing on 16 carries. Artis also was a victim of a twisted leg muscle, and will have to take it easy for a week or so.

Massanelli completed 6 out of 18 passes for 145 yards, and had three more completions wiped out by a few of the 13 penalties which totaled 145 yards in infractions against Hope.

Unable to move with the opening kickoff, the Leopards punted from their own 34, and soph Ronnie Ledbetter's boot rolled all the way to the Hope seven for 59 yards.

Worries of the bad position were immediately wiped clean, as Artis Martin broke outside on the first play from scrimmage and raced all the way to the Malvern 38 before being pushed out of bounds. There, the penalties began hitting. However, with a third and 21 at about midfield, Massanelli hit end David Still for a first down at the Malvern 22, then hit him again at the 15.

Still in the air, Massanelli threw to Still in the clear at the five, but missed connections resulted and Still deflected it into the hands of Leopards defensive halfback Freeman Bryant at his own two. Four downs later Ledbetter punted, and Artis brought it back from the 45 to the Leonard 22.

This time the Cats were held on downs, and Malvern's defense pushed it out to the 42 where the Leopard offense took over.

A five-yard offside call moved the ball back to the 37 and on third down Malvern QB David Pennington retreated to pass. His throw was intercepted by Hope linebacker Steve Harris, who scampered 41 yards untouched to paydirt. Ronny Brown booted the PAT, and suddenly the Bobcats led 7-0 with 3:07 left in the quarter.

Several minutes later, with the Cats punting from their own 32, David Still spiraled it to back Roy McLamore, who fumbled it at the Malvern 29 and the Bobcats recovered there with Brown on the ball.

There the first quarter ended, but Massanelli came back with a 19-yard pass to Lee Davis, and the senior end lunged it to the seven for first and goal. Two gains by Thomas Lloyd moved it to the one, and on third down fullback Gary Jones bulldozed from the one with 10:32 left in the half. Brown's kick was good again, and Hope surprisingly led it 14-0.

For the remainder of the half, Hope kept the ball control until Malvern got off a sputtering offensive to the Bobcat 30 late in the second quarter.

With the second-half kick, the Cat offense was stopped but the defense did the same to Malvern, and Hope took over again at the Leopard 32 after a short three-yard punt.

Another of the major 15-yard penalties was assessed back to the Malvern 47, and the offense was at the end of the string. However, a double handoff from Jones back to Massanelli sent the quarterback untouched on the right, and a beautiful pass hit David Still on the run at the Leopard five-yard line.

Artis Martin failed twice to push it across, then Massanelli elli sneaked over for his first touchdown from the one, with 5:29 left in the third quarter. Brown kicked it wide right and the score stood at 20-0.

With the next kickoff, Malvern showed their toughness by running off their only drive of the night, an 84-yard job on the ground which consumed eight minutes of play and actually helped Hope because the clock ran down so much. With 3rd and seven at the Hope 23, Pennington hit McLamore on a screen, and the solid fullback cut crossfield and ran in for the TD. Running for two points, Malvern was smothered, and the tally was set at 20-6 with 10:08 to play.

That was Malvern's first and only gasp, as the Hope defense later rose and stifled the Leopards' attempts to get moving again while Still's punts kept the Cats out of trouble.

Four straight victories, and the Bobcats have outscored those four opponents 118-6 to get the momentum started for a darkhorse run at the 4-AA West title behind consensus favorites Arkadelphia and Fairview.

And those Arkadelphia Badgers struck a good note for the West last night, bombing the No. 7 ranked Camden Panthers of 4-AA East 26-14.

Artis gained 110 yards to move his 1969 totals to 576 yards on 91 carries, but Gary Jones came into his own with 77 yards on 15 runs. And Thomas Lloyd, who has been a breakout threat behind Artis, totaled up 31 yards on ten tries. David Still caught four passes for 104 yards, and Lee Davis snagged two for 21, McLamore ran 15 times for 53 yards to lead Malvern.

Defensively, everybody did well for Hope, but the squad will miss Norton even though 205-pound senior Glen Roark has played much already and will step in next Friday. The offensive line did quite well against what frequently was an eight-man front by Malvern, and Massanelli showed his passing is still getting better. He now has completed 23 out of 40 attempts, or better than a 40 per cent average.

North Little Rock Oak Grove is next, as the little-known Hornets come to Hammons Stadium next Friday night at 7:30 p.m. Hope fans should come prepared to see a different team in the Cats, because winning has given the squad confidence they never knew existed.

And it will get even better.

Namath Vows This Will Be His Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets says "there's no doubt in my mind right now that this is probably my last year" as a pro football player.

Namath said Wednesday that reports of his retirement at the end of this season are "not official at this point. It's just a logical thing."

The flamboyant Super Bowl star with the steel arm and porcelain knees said "I can't practice and it's getting to the point where I can't perform the way I should."

Namath's knee injuries have always raised the question of how long he'll stay in football.

The question came up again Tuesday night in Boston where Namath told Pat Collins of WBZ-TV "I can practically guarantee that" when asked if this season would be his last.

"If I can play I will. If I can't I won't," Namath said Wednesday after his return to New York.

Namath has had three operations on his knees since he signed a $400,000 contract five seasons ago to play with the Jets.

Griese to Be on Mission Impossible

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated PRESS Sports Writer
Quarterback Bob Griese of Miami, the American Football League's version of "Run For Your Life," will be on "Mission Impossible" tonight—trying to stop the Oakland Raiders' 1-game winning streak.

Griese, who scrambles like a shocked gazelle, leads the winless Dolphins against the all-winning Raiders in the Orange Bowl in one of two AFL clashes tonight. San Diego hosts Cincinnati in the other.

"I hate to play against him (Griese)," says Raider defensive lineman Carlton Oats. "You have to chase him all night long."

Not only will the Raiders have to contend with the jack rabbit quarterback, they'll also be trying to keep the Mercury down—Eugene "Mercury" Morris, that is. Morris leads the league in kickoff returns with 219 yards in six carries.

In AFL action Sunday, New York plays at Boston in a game transplanted because of the baseball playoffs; Houston hosts Buffalo at the Astrodome and Kansas City plays Denver in the rarified air of Mile High Stadium.

In the National Football League, these games are scheduled for Sunday: Green Bay at Minnesota; Baltimore at Atlanta; Dallas at Philadelphia; New Orleans at Los Angeles; Detroit at Cleveland; St. Louis at Pittsburgh; Washington at San Francisco, and Chicago at New York.

Darryl Lamonica, Oakland's golden-armed quarterback, directs the Raiders, who are eyeing the AFL record of 15 straight victories established by San Diego.

A powerhouse Oakland defense, which yielded only 52 yards rushing to Boston last week, lends balance to the Raiders' fine team—and could keep Griese running for his life all night.

Vikings Go Against Green Bay

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

There will be a college graduate football game Sunday at the University of Minnesota's Memorial Stadium between two groups of men—some balding, some starting to slow up, but all big, smart and tough—known as the Green Bay Packers and the Minnesota Vikings.

The key game in the National Football League's Central Division will get its college atmosphere because the Baltimore Orioles and Minnesota Twins have an American League baseball playoff game Monday at Metropolitan Stadium—and the Packers and Vikings would tear up the field.

So, the Packers and Vikings will try to tear up each other at Memorial Stadium as Green Bay shoots for its third straight victory and Minnesota attempts to tie the Pack for first place by making its record 2-1.

The Baltimore Colts, 0-2, and the Atlanta Falcons, 1-1, also will have to change playing sites because of a National League baseball playoff between the New York Mets and the Atlanta Braves Sunday at Atlanta Stadium. The Colts and Falcons will play at Georgia Tech's Grant Field.

In other NFL action: Dallas, 2-0, is at Philadelphia, 1-1; New Orleans, 0-2, at Los Angeles, 2-0; Detroit, 1-1, at Cleveland, 2-0; St. Louis 1-1 at Pittsburgh, 1-1; Washington, 1-1 at San Francisco, 0-2, and Chicago, 0-2 at the New York Giants, 1-1.

Oakland is at Miami and Cincinnati at San Diego Saturday night while the New York Jets are at Boston, Buffalo at Houston and Kansas City at Denver Sunday in the American Football League.

The Green Bay—Minnesota game pits a Packers' defense that has allowed just seven points in two games and a Vikings' offense which rolled up 52 points in two games and a Vikings' offense which rolled up 52 points in battering Baltimore.

Heading the Minnesota cast, with a light one on his left wrist because of a hairline fracture, will be quarterback Joe Kapp who completed 28 of 43 passes for 449 yards and an NFL record-tying seven touchdowns. Out to stop him will be a defense which features such stars as middle linebacker Ray Nitschke, and Willie Davis and back Herb Adderly.

Minnesota's front four will try to put the pressure on quarterback Bart Starr and also contain the running of Travis Williams who picked up 97 yards in 18 carries in a 14-7 victory over San Francisco.

Baltimore will be trying to regroup after the 52-14 smashing by Minnesota. A third straight loss, something that has not happened since 1962, would just about end the Colts' chances to catch Los Angeles in the Coastal Division. Atlanta will have to protect quarterback Bob Berry better than it did in a 17-7 loss to Los Angeles in which he was trapped 10 times.

For Philadelphia to upset Dallas, the Eagles will have to stop the running of rookie Calvin Hill, who leads the league with 208 in two games, and establish a rushing game against a Cowboys defense that has allowed just 99 yards on the ground this season.

A tremendous pass rush and steady offense, guided by quarterback Roman Gabriel, figures to get Los Angeles past New Orleans.

Leroy Kelly, who missed last week's action with a pulled hamstring, might return to add strength to Cleveland's running game. The Browns, led by Reece Morrison and rookie Ron Johnson, still ground out 199 yards in a 27-23 victory over Washington and now will have to penetrate a Detroit defense that has allowed only one touchdown.

ent young quarterback who is injured, likely will not start at San Diego. But the Bengals, who keep coming up with surprises, have another good prospect in Sam Wyche.

Wyche, filling in for Cook in the second half of last week's game with Kansas City, hit on nine-of-14 passes, including an 80-yard touchdown pass.

Quarterback Joe Namath, back in form after early season miseries, paces New York against Boston; O.J. Simpson and quarterback Jack Kemp, who gave Buffalo a new life with sensational performances last week, lead the Bills against Houston, and injury-wracked Kansas City will try it with third-string quarterback Mike Livingston at the helm against the bucking Broncos.

THE FIRST TIME: Ted Williams

'I Didn't Start Playing Until I Was in Junior High'

Every athlete begins as a small boy. The day he discovers his first football, his first baseball, or first basketball is one of the most important of his life. In the last installment of a five-part series, Lee Mueller describes Ted Williams' first experiences with a baseball bat.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The people who lived on Utah Street that summer became accustomed to looking out through their screen doors in the evening and seeing short, 13-year-old Wilbur Wiley and tall, 11-year-old Ted Williams walk past.

Williams, like all boys who grow up too quickly, moved with the grace of a man wading a creek. Over his thin body, he wore light pants and a loosely fitting shirt. Unlike his companion, Ted Williams always wore shoes.

"Ted never went barefooted. I remember that," Wilbur Wiley recalls. "A lot of kids in San Diego did, but Ted could never bring himself to it."

Ted Williams, you see, has never been exactly thick-skinned... any place.

In his autobiography, "My Turn At Bat," Williams calls Wiley "my first real boyhood pal." They lived only a block from each other, attended the same grade school and shot pool frequently on Wiley's table. When Wilbur completed his newspaper route in the evenings, he and Williams would meet and walk to the nearby North Park playground.

Wilbur Wiley says Ted Williams practically raised himself. "His mother and father were wonderful people," explained Wiley, now a San Diego realtor, "but his mother devoted practically all of her time to the Salvation Army and his father had a photo shop that kept him busy night and day." Ted Williams spent considerable time at North Park playground in those days.

The year is 1929 and somehow during the time that Williams has been coming to the playground, he has played only softball. This day, however, there is a pepper game among the five Talamante brothers—with a baseball.

"The first time I batted, I really slugged it," Williams recalls. "I loved the feel. After that, I couldn't wait to get out of school to run down to the playground to play pepper with them.

"One of the rules was that if you caught the ball on the fly while you were in the field, you won a time at bat. Hitting was the thing for me and, since I was tall, I sure took advantage of it... leaping around, knocking people over.

"At the time, though, I remember thinking it still wasn't more fun than playing softball.

"I really didn't start playing baseball until I was 13 and in junior high school. I remember once hitting a baseball and overhearing some older kid behind me say, 'You know, that kid has good wrists.'"

"I heard that and I said, 'Well, you just wait 'til next time!' Then I started practicing to show how good my wrists really were."

"(Ted always called a spade a spade," says Wilbur Wiley. "He never put up a false front.")

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

Every golfer, regardless of who he is, wishes secretly that he could hit the ball just a little bit farther. I do. You do. Everybody does.

Bookstores are full of secrets to power golf. Chi Chi Rodriguez, Ben Hogan and Gary Player, all relatively small in physique, have written books on the subject. So have many others.

Methods vary. Chi Chi, who weighs only 125 pounds, says his power comes from a strong left side. He does isometric exercises to help build this left side—standing against a door frame with his left shoulder, hip, leg and foot exerting isometric pressure to build up the muscles.

Gary Player's clubs are all made one-half inch longer than standard length, which naturally gives him a longer swing arc. Through vigorous exercising, he has developed tremendous strength and a proper weight shift brings his muscles into play, providing a delayed uncocking of the wrists on the downswing.

Young Punks Have Killed Wrestling

By MARTY RALBOVSKY

NEA Sports Writer

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — As the professional wrestling circuit makes its way through its endless list of county fairs and the one-night stands in the Sandusky and the Shelbyvilles, hundreds of wrestlers are collecting substantial paychecks.

One of them is Hans Schmidt, who says he is 39 and who says he has been wrestling professionally for 15 years (10 years can be added to both figures, according to some sources). Admittedly, he says, pro wrestling is in a sorry state, but the same, however, cannot be said of him.

"Money," says Hans Schmidt, "makes a lot of things worthwhile. Even wrestling. I know that wrestling today is laughed at by most people and, sure, I'm embarrassed sometimes by the things that happen. But what can I do? Change everything by myself? No, sir. I'm in it for one reason. The money."

It has been estimated that Hans Schmidt has netted about $1 million through wrestling. At one time, he says, he was making so much money the government was taking 41 per cent of it, and another time he remembers sitting down and writing out a check for $17,000 which he owed to the Internal Revenue Service on one year's earnings. "I gave the government an awful lot," he says, "but I made my share, too. I'm not complaining at all."

"And I don't feel as if I wasted the prime of my life doing something worthless because, if I didn't get into wrestling, where else could I have made the money I did? All I know is wrestling. When I finally retire, I'll buy some more land in Florida (he already has considerable real estate holdings in that state) and live a quiet life. The life of a wrestler isn't the greatest in the world, I know, but it used to be a lot better than it is now."

The reason for wrestling's decline, Hans Schmidt says, is because the general public long ago became fed up with the sport's overt fraudulence.

"The young punks coming up today are all fakes. They're overweight and out of shape and they never work out because they're out all night and sleeping all day. What really gets me is that they think they're tough guys. If they were around in the old days, somebody like Lou Thesz would have taken

PRO WRESTLING:

Fraud or Not?

them by their scrawny necks and... snap. The phony young punks have put wrestling in the sad state it's in right now."

But, he adds, as long as people are willing to pay to see them, phony or not, wrestling will survive.

"I'll tell you what's happening. The good wrestlers are carrying a lot of stiffs, that's what. Guys we'd normally put away in 20 or 30 seconds we're carrying for 15 and 20 minutes. As long as the people put their money down, they've got to get something in return. So we milk the matches, play around a little, give them their money's worth, and they go home happy."

(A bartender at the Cleveland Arena, where wrestling shows are held regularly, says wrestling fans are, indeed, a strange breed. "They come with the whole family," he says. "Mom, pop and all the kids. I've actually seen them carry infants in, feeding on milk bottles. I don't get much action at the bar, but there have been times when I sold drinks at wrestling shows and the people paid me off in pennies.")

Despite the financial rewards, one suspects Hans Schmidt has done considerable wrestling with his conscience, too. He does not allow his own children (a teenage son and daughter) to watch professional wrestling on television and will not—under any circumstances, he says—allow them to see him or any other wrestler perform in person.

THE TEN BEST WORLD SERIES

By LEE MUELLER, NEA Sports Writer

1914

(Second of 10-Part Series.)

THE 1914 WORLD SERIES was really something of a bust. (The Boston Braves dumped the Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games.) What makes it significant is that it marked a coup d'etat for the so-called "Miracle Braves" who roared from last place on July 18 to win the National League pennant.

Led by Hank Gowdy who batted .545 with a home run, triple and three doubles and a single, the Braves proved what substitute manager George Stallings had been saying all season: "If we get everybody well, we'll be the best team in baseball."

Although billed as one of the classic Cinderella teams, the Braves were considerably better than their mid-year standing. After second baseman Johnnie Evers and shortstop Rabbit Maranville recovered from illnesses, Boston was nearly unbeatable.

Travis Williams Has Patience

GREEN BAY, Wis. — (NEA)—Last year, Travis Williams languished at times on the Green Bay Packers bench, watching, silently, as Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski and Elijah Pitts and even Chuck Mercein squeezed handoffs he figured should rightly have been his.

To keep Travis Williams on any bench for any period of time, one suspects, is a move most coaches would seemingly avoid at all costs. After all, wasn't Travis Williams an unheralded rookie from Arizona State who, in 1967, ran back kickoffs and punts so fast the yellow No. 23 on his green jersey meshed into scrambled eggs as he streaked down sideline after sideline, 83, 96 and yes, even 103 yards?

It was Travis Williams, all right, but running back kickoffs and punts was one thing and running out of a disciplined backfield was another, he soon discovered.

The trouble with Travis. Packer followers say, was impatience. He wouldn't wait, they claim, for his blockers to develop, to open holes for him, and when he got the ball and saw them in his path he ran up their backs and, ultimately into the arms of waiting defensive linemen.

"The problem with Travis," said a Green Bay offensive lineman last year, "is that he thinks he can do it on speed alone. He doesn't think out there and use his head. He's trying to run over everybody, and outrun everybody, and he's not waiting for the right opportunities to develop. All he needs is some self-control."

So, instead of being the Packers' No. 1 ground-gainer in

Destroying Universities

With college campuses reopening this year, the vast majority of the American people are hoping against hope there will be no resumption of the violence which characterized last year.

A research committee of the Educational Testing Service in Berkeley, Calif., says if such tactics continue to escalate, "There's going to be a backlash of such proportions that the university is going to be destroyed as an intellectual enterprise." This statement came amid a prediction by J. Edgar Hoover that with the return of the students there will be "a continuation of the senseless plunder of last year."

And Congr. William E. Brock of Tennessee, head of a congressional task force which toured the campuses last spring, said that if the students do not adopt nonviolent means of attaining their goals, it's going to hasten the backlash. "An awful lot depends on the tactics that the students use in the coming year," he said. "People in authority just can't afford to sit in their offices and hope that nothing will happen."

What all this adds up to is that it behooves faculties, students and administration to foresee and forestall desperate measures to achieve student goals, whether realistic or unrealistic. If rioting and disruptions of educational processes occur again, it seems inevitable that radicals, either of the right or the left, will take over and then what will become of our much prized academic freedom? — Orlando (Fla.) Truth in Borrowing

In last week's news was a little item about a Midwest merchant's having received $5 in an anonymous note thanking him for the loan of $2.50 during the Depression. The extra amount would take care of the interest, wrote the borrower. An honest man, proclaimed the lender.

The gratifying story begged exploration, we felt. Jack Reed, Director of the Bureau of Business Research at Old Dominion College, provided it. In terms of the reduced buying power of today's dollar compared with the dollar of 25 years ago, the anonymous borrower returned Reed figured. At a rate of 5 per cent interest compounded annually since 1934, he should have returned $8.47.

Finally, considering both a reasonable interest rate and the dollar's decline in borrowing power, the debt of $2.50 had mounted to $23.30. Even honesty is subject to the rising cost of living. — Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot

Little By Little

"I read your little editorial," the reader said. Actually, it wasn't "little" at all. As editorial sizes go, it was medium to large. It reminded us of the time The New York Times sent back something we'd submitted with a note reading, "Sorry we are unable to use your little piece." Unenlightened editorial, misinformed editorial, shallow editorial, stupid editorial, lousy editorial, stinking editorial — OK, OK, we're fair game. But "little editorial" — that's how you really hurt a guy. By admitting this, we realize that we invite its use ever further. At least, however, we'll have the satisfaction of knowing that we acknowledged our sensitivity in advance. And we just might reply, "Well thanks a lot for your little comment." Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Korea to Vote on Amendment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
SEOUL (AP) — A controversial constitutional amendment that would allow President Chung Hee Park to seek a third four-year term will go to a national referendum Oct. 17, the presidential office announced today.

The opposition New Democratic party criticized the calling of a referendum on such short notice, charging the government party is trying to limit campaigning time of minority parties.

Americans Buy Cars at Record Rate

DETROIT (AP) — Americans, though growing cautious in their purchase of nonessentials, bought new cars at a record rate in September.

All four American automakers announced records of one sort or another.

Even American Motors, which often discloses sales figures only when asked, volunteered that September sales were 21,121, "the highest for that month in five years."

Sales during the month were spurred by introduction of the 1970 models and bargains on remaining stocks of 1969s. Industry sales for September totaled 709,388 cars, compared with the previous record of 601,375 in 1968.

Sales for the first three quarters were 6,303,636, second only to 1965 when the industry registered 6,397,199 new car sales through September.

Last year through nine months the automakers sold 6,275,829 cars.

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center reports that consumer willingness to spend lessened sharply in the third quarter, but that this apparently did not extend to cars.

"Expressed intentions to buy continue to be relatively frequent, especially for used cars," the center's report stated.

Holes in Street, People Fall In

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Holes open in the street and people fall in. Cracks develop in the tarmac and the international airport is closed down. Sewers explode.

Naples City Council has been asking the Italian government since 1967 for $41.6 million to correct the problem.

A committee of engineers determined that the soil under Naples has thousands of caverns connected by large corridors.

When it rains, the water pours off the Vomero Hill, the city's most populous area, into sewers that were built in the late 1700s but never fully modernized. The sewers explode, the water runs into the caverns and erodes that soil. This causes the holes and cracks in the street.

Constitution Defeat Is Feared

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court has been asked to prevent Southwestern States Telephone Co. from closing its business office at DeWitt and combining it with facilities at Stuttgart.

The city of DeWitt made the request Thursday.

The city of DeWitt passed an ordinance in 1965 requiring the company to operate a business office on a fulltime basis at DeWitt or suffer a $100 a day penalty and the case has been in litigation since that time.

Hoffa Loses Bid to Be Paroled

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, once counted among the nation's most powerful labor leaders, faces at least another year-and-a-half behind bars of a federal prison following rejection of his plea for parole.

Hoffa, who has served two years and eight months of an eight year conviction for jury tampering, lost his try for early release Thursday when the U.S. Parole Board rejected his bid. The board said it would reconsider his case in March 1971.

Hoffa, the stocky, defiant leader of the two-million-member Teamsters Union whose legal battles with the government began under the Kennedy administration, were continued during the Johnson administration and still are going on, is in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.

He entered there in late 1967 after failing in his attempts to overturn a 1964 conviction on charges of tampering with a Nashville, Tenn., jury.

Hoffa's lawyers currently are appealing to the Supreme Court another conviction in 1964 on charges of using Teamster pension funds to finance a Florida real estate deal. He was sentenced to five years in prison, and a $10,000 fine, the jail term to run consecutively with his present sentence.

While in prison the 56-year-old Hoffa has continued as president of the Teamsters, leaving direction of the union to Teamsters Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons. The union re-elected Hoffa to a five-year term in 1966 before he entered prison. In 1968, while in jail, Hoffa was re-elected president of his home local in Detroit.

Hoffa would have been eligible for parole Nov. 6, one-third of the way through his jury tampering sentence. His lawyers still maintain both his convictions were obtained with illegal wiretap evidence. He has denied freedom on bail this spring pending determination if the alleged wiretapping had violated his civil rights.

To Play Dixie Despite Negro Protests

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The Student Council of Conway High School has voted to continue the playing of "Dixie" despite objections by six Negroes.

Those who objected to the playing of the song and said its symbolism was offensive to the blacks. The song has been played primarily at "pep" rallies and assemblies and the objectors contended it was not a necessary part of the rallies.

James H. Clark, principal of the school, announced the council's vote and said that in the future students would not be required to attend the assemblies.

The school has about 700 students.

$21.3 Billion for Military Passes House

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a $21.35 billion military spending package, including President Nixon's Safeguard ABM system, after one of the bitterest public fights of the year.

The bill—slightly more expensive than when passed by the Senate—received 311 to 44 approval in the House Friday night after a debate marked by shouting matches, charges of open vote maneuvering and claims by spending critics they were muzzled.

It gives Nixon the go-ahead to deploy his version of the anti-ballistic missile system, leaves intact $481 million for 23 more of the controversial C5A supercargo planes and contains $1 billion more for ships than the administration asked.

Efforts by critics of military spending to cut those and other projects totaling $2.2 billion were defeated during the week-long House consideration of the measure.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee in which differences between versions passed by each chamber will be worked out.

Occasional angry exchanges between supporters and critics of military spending Wednesday and Thursday became the dominant feature of heated debate Friday.

Critics claimed they were being run over roughshod when debate on the Advanced Manned Strategic bomber was cut off by voice vote after only six minutes.

They protested again when debate was limited to 47 seconds per speaker on a proposal to cut $136 million from three bomber defense projects.

Armed Services Committee Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., accused critics in general of distorting facts and accused Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., of "heaping abuse" on the chairman, other committee members and the committee staff.

Leggett had said military spending has risen $10 billion a year since Rivers became chairman.

The money for the projects was included in a $4.3 billion public works appropriation bill which the committee sent to the House for consideration.

Army Engineer construction projects in Arkansas and the amount of appropriations included: Arkansas River, bank stabilization, $3.5 million; Arkansas River Navigation locks and dams, $58 million; Dardanelle Lock and Dam, $4.1 million; De Gray reservoir $5.6 million; DeQuincy Reservoir, $300,000; Dierks Reservoir, $466,000; Garland City, $200,000; Gilliam Reservoir, $1.6 million; Narrows Dam, $200,000; Ouachita and Black rivers, $9 million; Ozark Lock and Dam, $8 million; Red River levees and bank stabilization below Enison Dam, $600,000.

Students Feel News Stories Are Unfair

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — College students feel many newspaper stories are inaccurate and unfair, a survey shows, but rate newspapers better in this respect than news magazines, television and radio.

The survey, conducted by a committee of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, was presented at the organization's convention Thursday.

The view of high school pupils were included in some areas of the survey, and both groups said they spent more time with newspapers than with other news media.

The survey interviewed 110 college students, and 36.5 per cent felt television was the "most interesting" news medium followed by news magazines, 35.5 per cent, newspapers, 21.5 per cent, and radio, 6.5 per cent.

The 87 high school pupils' interest was divided equally among newspapers, television news and news magazines—about 30 per cent for each—with radio the most interesting for 10 per cent.

When asked what newspaper information is handled inaccurately, college students most often mentioned stories on campus unrest, demonstrations and riots, Negro and slum problems and Vietnam.

But they also said that of the news media, newspapers were the most accurate (35.8 per cent) compared to news magazines (32 per cent), television news (25.5 per cent) and radio news (6.6 per cent).

Asked which news medium was fairest, the college students gave newspapers (53.5 per cent) a wide edge over television (21.2 per cent), news magazines (13.1 per cent) and radio (12.2 per cent).

Intended as a guideline for newspaper handling of stories, the survey showed that college students would like to read more stories about racial and social problems, politics, campus unrest and positive things. What they would like to see less of included crime and murder, society, scandal and gossip and Vietnam.

The college students said they spent an average of almost seven hours a week reading newspapers, more than three hours a week each watching television news and reading news magazines, and nearly three hours weekly listening to radio news.

High school pupils gave newspapers just over three hours a week compared to 2½ hours each for radio and television news, and one hour 15 minutes a week reading news magazines.

"Are newspapers treating teen-agers fairly?" the high school students were asked. Many said negative news about teen-agers is overemphasized, not enough attention is given to good things young people are doing, and that newspapers stress the results of teen crime rather than the causes.

Rene Cazenave of the San Francisco Examiner, who directed the study by the APME content committee, said the college students interviewed were from 82 colleges and universities in 34 states, and the average age was 21.

The high school pupils represented 75 schools in 27 states, and the average age was 16½.

often develops after the initial years of scouting.

What kind of activities are open to Explorers? The list is almost unlimited. From scuba diving to safe driving, from the study of Indian lore to election law. In neighboring Nashville, Explorers are doing their thing by working in a hospital as orderlies and nurses aides.

Exploring is a division of the Boy Scouts of America, just as a high school, a junior high, and a grade school are under the same board of education. In the same way, also, Exploring and its program do not easily mix with the other programs of the BSA which are designed for younger age groups. Exploring does operate within the administration of the BSA, but Explorers do not have to be former scouts.

Since Exploring has become more co-ed and more contemporary in the past few months, a new word has cropped up in the Exploring vocabulary—hostess. The definition of this welcome addition to the scene is simply: a married woman, 21 years of age or older, who participates with her husband in post co-ed activities other than regular post meetings.

Thus far, Explorer Post 91 has 10 members—all boys—so no hostess has been named, but with the addition of girl members, a hostess will be acquired. There is no Scout Master, but, instead, the adult meeting with the Post is called an Advisor. In this case, he is Edgar Hartsfield, a man who has worked with many phases of the scouting program for the past 15 years. He and his family moved to Hope from Alaska a few months ago, and they make their home on East 23rd Street.

The recently organized Post has already shown the result of good work by winning 2nd place in the Livestock Show Parade. These diligent young people meet the 2nd and 4th Tuesday each month at 7 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church. Post officers are: president, Mark Gunter; vice-president, Alphonse Roy; secretary, Clay Lehman; treasurer, Allen Foster.

The Rev. Jim Sewell is serving as institutional representative, and members of the Post committee are: Tom Hays, Jr., Crit Stuart, Jr., Paul Kilpsch, Arthur Wimmell, and Harry Hopkins. The latter has moved since being named to the committee, but he is still a part of it until his term expires.

Guidelines for the Post are drawn up by the Explorers themselves and are called the Post Code. This is always done in good taste and in keeping with the customs, laws, standards and morals of the community and the country.

Many Rice Farms Have Overplanted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service reported Thursday that 12 per cent of the rice farms in Craighead County, 8 per cent in Prairie County and 7 per cent in Chicot County were overplanted this year.

An official of the ASCS said, however, that there was nothing alarming about the overplanting in the three counties.

"We were pleased that we didn't find any real trouble," the spokesman said.

Persons who overplant their rice acreage allotments must pay a marketing quota penalty of 4.72 cents a pound on the normal production of the excess acreage. Producers who overplant beyond a "tolerance level" also forfeit their price support loans.

The entire performance, featuring Haggard, Bonnie Owens and Gene Price and the Strangers, will be recorded live for use on Haggard's next album.

Appointment Depends on GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has committed himself to a showdown vote on his Supreme Court nominee even though he so far lacks a possibly essential ingredient to victory—open support of his own Senate leaders.

Both Republican Leader Hugh Scott and GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin refused to take sides Friday as Nixon began to shift the full weight of his prestige into blunting criticism of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

Scott said he still would vote in the Senate Judiciary Committee to report the nomination to the floor but that he could not predict what the Senate—or even he—would do then.

Scott even added a note of faint hostility. He said he agreed with Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that Haynsworth may have shown questionable judgment in ruling, as a federal judge, on two cases involving companies with which he was financially involved.

Scott also left it up to another Republican member of the Judiciary Committee to release a letter from Nixon that capped a day of steadily increased White House pressure and mounting counter-demands from Democrats and Republicans that Nixon withdraw the nomination.

In a letter to Scott, Nixon said there was nothing in Haynsworth's record to cast doubt on his integrity or to fault his position on civil rights or labor issues.

"In order that there be no misunderstanding on the part of anyone," wrote Nixon, who is spending the weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla., "I send this letter to confirm that I steadfastly support this nomination and earnestly hope and trust that the Senate Judiciary Committee will proceed with dispatch to approve the nomination."

Copies of the letter were sent to Judiciary Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and the committee's senior GOP member, Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska who earlier met with newsmen to defend Haynsworth in a full dress news conference.

It was Hruska who released the Nixon letter in the day. He accompanied it with a statement of his own branding Nixon's reported plans to allow Haynsworth to withdraw his name as "false and completely unfounded rumors."

Besides the Nixon letter and the Eastland-Hruska news conference, statements supporting Haynsworth, who is now on the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals, came from Sens. Gordon Allott of Colorado and John Tower of Texas.

Allott heads the Republican Policy Committee and Tower chairs the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

Margaret Chase Smith of Maine reportedly has informed the President by letter that she will vote against Haynsworth. George Aiken of Vermont, dean of Senate Republicans, told a newsmen Friday he thought the President should probably withdraw the nomination if it looked like opponents could muster 40 votes.

Doesn't Feel Feed Plan Is Enough

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service says he does not think the Agriculture Department's emergency livestock feed program for farmers in drought-stricken areas is worth implementing the way it is set up.

L. J. Churchill of Dover made the statement Thursday.

Another committee member, Fred Daum of Pleasant Grove (Stone County) said, "financially, it's not going to be of any assistance."

Committee members said the program contained so many restrictions that the number of livestock farmers who would be able to qualify would be limited.
